

Gen Z: Influenced by MLK

By: Sarah Steiden, 7th Grade, Highland Middle School

Martin Luther King Jr. paved a path for civil rights. He showed perseverance and strength and never gave up. We can make his vision of a perfect future come true. As a member of Generation Z, we can all make a difference and change. We're going to be the next difference makers in the workforce while helping others; as Dr. King did.

Dr. Martin Luther King once said, "Life's most persistent and urgent question is, what are you doing for others?" What are we doing for others right now? We are helping the poor, sick, and needy. We are the next doctors, teachers, military, and jobs that help others. We are the next generation of leaders, and we can learn from his example.

We are creating this perfect future. We are creating the future Dr. Martin Luther King envisioned and we are inspired by him to influence change. We are helping others, especially in this time of need. The pandemic showed all of us that we need help sometimes. The doctors, teachers, and the military are persevering, just as Martin Luther King did.

Even today, kids are already making a change and impact on society by their leadership and actions. They are serving people through soup kitchens, advocating for human rights, and helping our environment. As long as more of us help, we can make change for centuries to come. He has encouraged us all to keep going, even through hard times. He had a dream, and we're here to make that dream come true.
