

Partners in Archaeology: An Introduction to Archaeology for Educators

Paul Sawyer Public Library
319 Wapping Street Frankfort, KY 40601
and Julian Farm
Franklin County, Kentucky

May 30-31, 2025

Archaeology is a fun and interesting way to engage students and the public in history. It is a field based in science, culture, and history through the study of objects. This one-and-a-half-day workshop introduces you to archaeology: what it is, how it's done, who does it, why we do it, and how you can incorporate it into your educational programming. Professional archaeologists will demonstrate how you can apply archaeological concepts in a classroom or museum setting to teach a wide range of subjects using a hands-on approach to the study of objects.

Your Name

Your Occupation

Where Do You Work?

Workplace Email

Work Address

Workplace Phone Number

Students Ages/Grades You Commonly Teach/Work With

Why Do You Want to Attend Our Workshop?

Please submit your completed registration form and $10.00 registration fee online at xxxx no later than May 12, 2025. Upon receipt of your form and fees, you will receive a confirmation email and a preliminary agenda. If you have questions or concerns, please contact Nicole Konkol (Nicole.Konkol@ky.gov). Thank you for your interest!

Brought To You By

