

The Danville Art Center is a great place to find works by local artisans and you can even see artists like David Farmer working in their studios. If you act fast you might see a cool Christmas tree, or MS director, Nick Wade dressed as one!

Anthony Veerkamp at the National Trust writes, "The modern preservation movement played an instrumental role in ending Urban Renewal as an official program, but not before it had done severe damage to cities large and small. Preservationists and community advocates need to keep that experience clearly in the rearview mirror as we consider our response to Opportunity Zones, which are in some ways an effort to repair the damage inflicted by Urban Renewal." Congratulations to Jacob Roan, Pineville on this regional recognition! This is quite an honor for him, Pineville, and Bell County. Thank you for all your hard work and your support of KYMS and sharing the Main Street approach!

Main Street Monday!

KYMS was saddened, but not surprised to learn that Covington director, Katie Meyer will be leaving her post. The following is from her board and we feel the same. Katie will continue working with Renaissance Covington and KYMS through the end of April as we celebrate our 40th Anniversary of Kentucky Main Street in her hometown of Covington.

Please join us in thanking our Executive Director, Katie Meyer, for her 9 years of service to Renaissance Covington as she prepares for a new opportunity in 2019. Katie's commitment to the revitalization of downtown Covington has been unparalleled and for that we are grateful. The Staff & Board of Directors at Renaissance Covington will continue our important work as a new Executive Director is sought (job posting in January 2019). Please visit www.rcov.org/blog for more information.

Over the course of her tenure as Director, Meyer spearheaded numerous efforts on behalf of Renaissance Covington to aid in the revitalization of downtown Covington; programs including The Covington Farmers Market, Shop Small Initiatives, Free Public WiFi, the Curb'd Parklets and the Covington Night Bazaar among dozens of other projects and activations. In 2017, Main Street America recognized Renaissance Covington with the Great American Main Street Award. Additionally, Meyer and Renaissance Covington have been a valued partner to numerous organizations in the city, including the City of Covington, Covington Business Council and The Center for Great Neighborhoods among numerous others.

Staring in January 2019, Meyer will be taking a new position as the Smart Cities Policy Advisor for Cincinnati Bell/ CBTS, utilizing her skills to shepherd further integration of technology, mission-driven policy opportunities, and internet access throughout the region and beyond.

We look forward to working with Katie, not only on the conference, but in the future. She is a dynamic young leader and we are grateful for all the work she and her board have done in Covington and the work she has done for other communities around the country.

Congratulations Katie! You will be missed.

Happy Birthday to Stephanie Burden, Cynthiana whose birthday was yesterday.

Is there anything more magical than a small town Christmas Parade?

The Christmas Carousel in Cynthiana was a great success! There were other carnival rides as well.

Artist, Heather Watson, painted the storefront of this vacant building in Beattyville, someone will certainly want to move in now!

Naughty or Nice? Could be a tough call with these two :)

From the Main Street Center community digest. If you are not using this resource you are missing out on some great tips and information. A Main Street director had a question regarding security during events, mostly one roads. I wanted to share these items with you.

We have similar issues regarding security. We purchased 15 jersey barricades. These are lightweight plastic barricades, easy to move and store. However, when they are filled with water, they will stop a car. Our DPS fills them. We stagger them across the street so cars and emergency vehicles can still enter the sight after being vetted but no one can crash into the street head on. At the end of an event, we just pull the plugs and the water runs into the sewer.
